

Michael Schemmann

MBA, PhD, CPA Ret., LL.M.

Dean and Associate Professor of Accounting & Finance

AASBI Manager and Director Owner

CV Biography

Michael is a Canadian and a German, was born in 1940 in Geismar of Gottingen, Niedersachsen (Lower Saxony), Germany, growing in Gottingen, Kassel and Basel, Switzerland during the Freie Waldorf School, graduating Senior High School at Radnor, Pennsylvania in 1959, taking a banking apprenticeship and a graduate bachelor's of business at business school, Pforzheim University of Applied Science accredited by AACSB as a well-recognized business school in Germany for high-achieving, motivated students, it is a first choice among public universities in Germany; at later at MBA and Ph.D. and California Western University and California Coast University, and LL.M. of Concordia College and University.

Michael worked as a private and banking of Commerzbank, Germany, of American Express at Zurich, and Canadian-American Paul E. Erdman an American writer and financial thriller (1932-2007) for Salik Bank and United California Bank, received a 1974 Edgar Award from the Mystery Writers of America for Best First Novel and was published in the UK as "The Billion Dollar Killing". His second novel, "The Silver Bears" (1974) was turned into a 1978 movie of nearly the same name, starring Michael Caine.

Michael became a Pforzheim University student in the spring of 1969, and in 1972 to 2004 worked at Nova Scotia Bank in Toronto as a corporate credit officer in charge of Ontario, Manitoba and Saskatchewan, and in 1974 to 1977 until Sandoz chemical company as financial controllers in Basel and Vancouver, British Columbia.

Michael took a CPA State in 1977 at the Board of Washington until June 30, 2024, working at KPMG in Munich, and Deloitte in Calgary, Alberta, Canada.

Michael was a visiting professor of Assumption University's Graduate School of Business in Bangkok, and courses at other universities in Thailand from 2001 to 2005, becoming a Dean and Associate Professor of Accounting and Finance in KIMEP University Almaty, Kazakhstan from 2006 until 2009.

Michael founded as the managing director and owner of IICPA (ICPA.com) International Institute of Certified Public Accountants in 2001, and in 2007 the AASBI Asian Association of School of Business International (AASBI.com) trademark by the USPTO, retrained as the AASBI Associated Accredited School of Business International.

Michael has published up to 64 accounting, finance & banking and business for university students and a certain of AASBI's brochures beginning in 2003-2024 covering China-USA, India, Ukraine, Switzerland-Germany, France-United Kingdom and Indonesia.