Ivy League founded as the Group "American Assembly of Collegiate Schools of Business" (AACSB) in 1916, namely seven of the eight private members of the Ivy League as Brown University established 1754, Columbia University in 1754 as the King's College, Cornell University in 1864, Dartmouth College in 1769, Harvard College in 1636, University of Pennsylvania in 1751, Princeton University as the College of New Jersey 1746, and Yale University as Collegiate School in 1701.

Wikipedia's list on #Rank Overall of their Ivey's endowments FY2023 are: #1 Harvard $50 billion, #3 Yale $40 bn, #4 Stanford $36 bn, #5 Princeton $35 bn, #6 MIT $23 bn, #7 U. of Pennsylvania $21 bn, #11 Notre Dame $17 bn, #12 and #13 of Northwestern and Columbia $14 bn, #14 Duke $13, etc.

The Schools of Business Schools as mentioned above, are not accredited by the AACSB in 1916 by the Ivy League's Universities' being the creation of the AACSB, but in effectively the opposite. And the Ivey League's are the highest endowment universities at far, also from the largest cities of the wealthiest areas, namely, Boston of Massachusetts, Great New York City, Chicago, Texas, and California.

The universities are also the highest endowment research, receiving their funds from including Apples, Microsoft, IBM, HP, Shell, Amazon, JP Morgan, UBS, Nestle, Pepsi-Cola, F. Hoffmann La Roche, SC Johnson, etc. being the MNC Multinational Corporations. Endowment funds are not created by AACSB's accreditation's universities, by the AASBI who certification, publishing and its donations of the MNC Multination Corporations.

AACSB may increase accreditations of universities of their enrollments, and their tuitions, to process that includes a rigorous external review of a school's mission, faculty qualifications, curricula, and ability to provide the highest-quality programs. But the results may become along with their enrollments, and may be always not. As Einstein believed that, education should not be limited to theoretical knowledge but should also focus on its practical application.

Doctor students by Armin G. Schemmann, #2 Stanford University Engineering incl. John James Audubon Bridge, the Legend Cable-Stayed Span in the Americas; and my son's Gunter Sven Schemmann doctoral student's at #11 ranking Princeton University as of aerospace mechanical engineering.
